

DEDICATION ITEMS

Sands Casino

Sands Casino was looking for a commemorative item to give to VIP's at the grand opening of their new casino. The area was originally know for its strong steel industry heritage. In fact, the actual casino was building over a sit of an old steel mill. To honor that heritage an image was created by taking an old photo of the steel mill and fading it into an image of the new casino. The image was direct printed on the stone using our new UV printer. To add a bit of flair the casino logo and dedication information was laser engraved and color filled metallic gold.

Indiana University Cancer Center

Many people are involved when it comes to building a new facility. Clarian was looking for just the perfect gift to recognize those who put in long hours to make their new cancer center a reality. They wanted a gift that would "jump off a desk" when people saw it. The idea was to create a backer piece in a stone color similar to the one used to build the new facility. A splash of teal stone was added for color and then a unique 3-dimensional relief of the building as designed to make it jump off the front of the piece. The final result was a piece that impressed all who received it.

Susquehanna Hospital

A hospital was dedicating their new building and were looking for a small gift to give out to all who attended the ceremony. With the building being predominately built out of limestone the customer loved the idea of handing out a paperweight in the shape of a limestone brick. The top was polished smooth so a detailed etching of the building, logo and tagline could be added.
